Hiro : I hope so. Have you had breakfast yet?

Johnson: No, I haven't.

Hiro : Shall we eat at the hotel's restaurant for breakfast?

Johnson: Hmm... I feel like going out and eat at the fastfood chain nearby...like McDonalds. How about you?

Hiro : I'm not used to eating at a fastfood chain in Japan , I prefer a home cooked breakfast of my wife...but I'll try...

johnson: I think , you're homesick now...hahahahahahaha you determine how formal the letter needs to be.

Why am I writing this letter?

The main reason for the letter should be understood from the subject line and first few sentences. Identify your main goal and what you hope to accomplish.

Are there specific details I need to include?

Gather any dates, addresses, names, prices, times or other information that you may need to include before you write your letter. Double check details rather than relying on your memory.

Do I require a response?

Before you start writing, determine whether or not you require an action or response from the recipient. Your request or requirement should be very clear. In some cases you may even need to provide a deadline for a response. If you do require a response, how should the recipient contact you?

How can I organize my points logically?

Think about how you would organize your thoughts if you were speaking rather than writing to the recipient.

Here is an example outline:

RECIPIENT

- Karen Jacobson
- Acquaintance (met twice before, briefly)
- Title: President, The Flying Club
- Address: 44 Windermere Drive, Waterloo, Ontario L1B 2C5

REASON

- To invite a board member to remain on the board for a second term.
- Other members suggested that she has enjoyed this position and has been thinking about staying on.
- No other volunteers have come forward to take over at the end of September.

SPECIFIC DETAILS

- If she decides to stay on she will need to be available for the national meeting on 5 November.
- Board members who stay for two terms are sometimes asked to take on extra duties, such as taking minutes or hosting social events.
