Teacher's Script

Questions 1 through 3 refer to the following telephone message.

Hello, this is Brandon Meyer from Apex Realty Group. I'm calling regarding the upcoming open house at the Maple Street property you inquired about last week. The showing is scheduled for this Saturday, beginning at 11 a.m., and we encourage interested buyers to arrive early, as this particular home has already drawn a great deal of attention. Please keep in mind that masks are still required inside the house, and we ask that all guests limit their time to fifteen minutes during peak hours. I've also emailed you a digital brochure with floor plans, property details, and recent updates, including new kitchen appliances and a remodeled bathroom. If you'd like to arrange a private viewing or have any questions before the weekend, feel free to call or reply to the email. We

Questions 4 through 6 refer to the following radio broadcast.

And now for your local business spotlight: if you've ever wondered where to get high-quality, handmade furniture without the high price tag, you'll want to check out Wood & Grain in downtown Ellisville. Owned and operated by longtime craftsman Marcus Lane, this family-run workshop has been building custom tables, chairs, and shelving units from sustainable materials for over 15 years. What sets Wood & Grain apart is their dedication to both durability and beauty—each item is made to order, and customers can choose from a variety of wood types and finishes. In-store consultations are available Monday through Friday, and walk-ins are welcome. Wood & Grain also offers delivery and installation throughout the county. Tune in tomorrow morning for an interview with Marcus himself, where he'll talk about his design inspirations and upcoming workshop series for beginner woodworkers.

Questions 7 through 9 refer to the following meeting announcement.

Before we wrap up today's departmental meeting, I need to inform everyone about a change that will affect our employee shuttle service. Starting next Monday, the shuttle that picks up staff from the east parking lot will no longer operate in the mornings. This decision comes after reviewing ridership

Questions 10 through 12 refer to the following workplace announcement.

Good afternoon, everyone. As you know, the company has been reviewing flexible scheduling policies to better support work-life balance. I'm pleased to announce that starting next month, all employees will have the option to work from home on Fridays. This arrangement will begin as a three-month trial period, during which supervisors will monitor productivity and communication. If the results are positive, we may extend the policy to include additional days. Those wishing to participate should submit a request form to Human Resources by the 20th of this month. Please ensure your company laptop is configured for remote access and that you have a reliable internet connection. If you need assistance setting up your home office, our IT team will be available for appointments starting next week. We look forward to seeing how this new schedule benefits everyone.

Many of these works were created not only as functional objects, such as bowls or storage jars, but also as ceremonial pieces that carry deep cultural significance. The exhibition features interviews with contemporary artists who explain how traditional techniques influence their modern designs. Pay attention to how the display integrates video and sound, bringing each artifact's story to life. The curator chose to design the layout so visitors move in a circular route, reflecting the cyclical nature of many Pacific creation myths. It's a unique approach that has received praise from art historians around the world.

Questions 16 through 18 refer to the following shareholder presentation.

Ladies and gentlemen, thank you for attending our quarterly shareholder meeting. As you know, six months ago we made the decision to invest heavily in developing lightweight electric truck technology. While this move initially caused a dip in our stock value due to high research costs, I'm happy to report that the numbers are starting to rebound. Early tests show our trucks outperform competitors in both battery range and hauling capacity. However, because electric trucks are still a relatively niche market, our focus for the next quarter will be on building charging infrastructure along major freight routes. We believe this will position us ahead of the curve as demand grows. If sales meet our projections, the value of your shares should increase significantly by

Questions 19 through 21 refer to the following factory tour.

If you'll all gather here, I'd like to introduce the latest addition to our production line: two fully automated packaging machines, installed just three months ago. Each machine is capable of processing over 400 units an hour, which has allowed us to double our daily output without adding extra staff. This efficiency has reduced our operating costs considerably, keeping us competitive in the market. Another advantage is that the machines require only one operator each, compared to the three operators needed for the old models.

Maintenance is scheduled every two weeks, and we can keep one machine running while the other is serviced, so production never stops. The equipment was designed by a German engineering firm and assembled right here on-site.

Now, if you'll follow me, we'll move to the display area where you can see our finished products.

Questions 25 through 27 refer to the following workplace announcement.

Before we adjourn today's meeting, I want to take a moment to recognize a valued colleague. As many of you know, Sarah Lin will be transferring to our Toronto branch at the end of this month. This is her last project meeting with us, and while we're sad to see her go, we know she'll continue to excel in her new role. Sarah has been a driving force behind several successful campaigns and is always the first to volunteer when challenges arise. Her creativity and upbeat attitude have inspired everyone here. Toronto is lucky to have her, and I'm confident we'll be hearing great news about her achievements in the months ahead. For those who can join, we'll be gathering for a farewell dinner tomorrow evening at the Riverfront Grill.
